Description:

The special lecture on "Bhariatyua sikkhae bharater bivinno panchabarshiki parikalpanar pravab: nari sikkhar khetra" (Impact of India's Five-Year Plans on Women's Education) aimed to evaluate the role of national development strategies in shaping the landscape of women's education in India. The speaker, a renowned expert in gender studies and education policy, provided a comprehensive analysis of the policies, initiatives, and interventions implemented during various Five-Year Plan periods to promote women's education.

Outcomes:

- Historical Context: Attendees gained insights into the historical evolution of women's education in India, tracing the trajectory of policy interventions across different Five-Year Plan periods.
- Progress and Challenges: The lecture facilitated a nuanced understanding of the progress made and the persistent challenges faced in advancing women's education. Discussions centered around issues such as access, retention, quality, and gender disparities in educational attainment.
- Opportunities for Advocacy and Action: Participants engaged in dialogue and deliberation on strategies for advancing women's education within the framework of India's development plans. Advocacy efforts, policy reforms, and community-based interventions were identified as key avenues for promoting gender equality in education.

Conclusion:

In conclusion, the special lecture shed light on the significant influence of India's Five-Year Plans on the trajectory of women's education in the country. While progress has been made in expanding access to education for women, challenges such as gender disparities, cultural barriers, and socio-economic inequalities continue to impede the realization of gender equality in education.

INAUGURAL SESSION

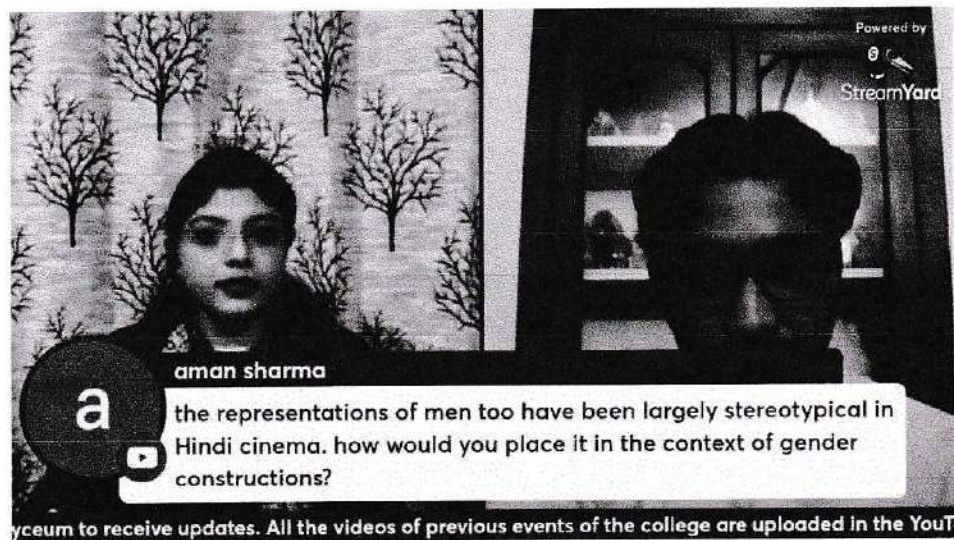

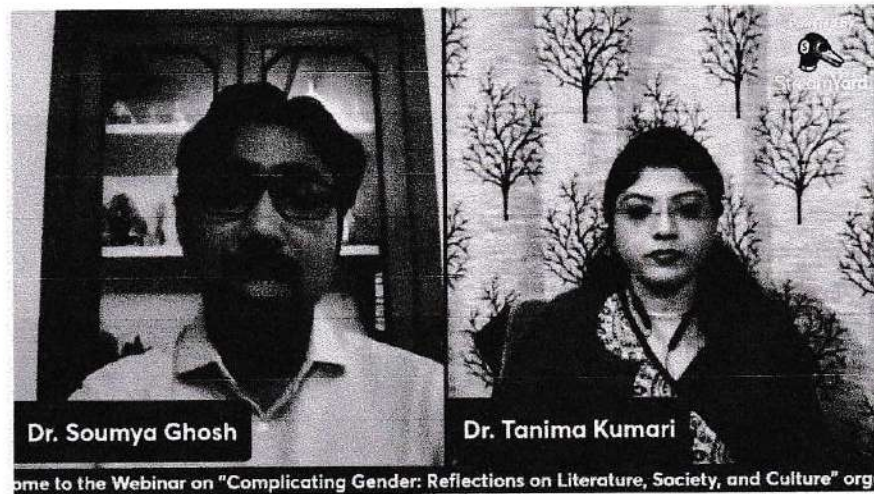

The event started with the convener cum host, Dr. Soumya Mohan Ghosh, welcoming the dignitaries on screen and introducing the theme of the webinar. After that the Principal cum Chairperson of the webinar, Dr. Bibhas Chandra Saha, welcomed the guests and delivered the Chairperson's Speech. He extended a warm welcome to all the resource persons and the viewers and expressed his gratitude to the guests for gracing the occasion. The inaugural session ended with the Convener's Speech in which Dr. Soumya Mohan Ghosh remarked that even after more than four decades since the United Nations first celebrated International Women's Day in the year 1975 following the publication of "Towards Equality" report in 1974 gender continued to remain one of the important markers in our society. The historical process of constructing gender identity, he opined, was a continuous phenomenon that can be found reflected in literature, society, and culture, as well as in films which were the integral part of any society and culture. He said that women were either celebrated as desexualized elevated beings or devalued as over-sexualized seductresses. However, over the years, he was of the opinion that gender had become a contested domain as more and more women were trying to address the issues related to women, but, the issues of women of color, Asian women, lesbian, queer, trans-women still needed critical attention. He concluded his speech by saying that the event aspired to address some of those issues.
