Introduction:

A special lecture on "Academic Integrity" was organized by the IQAC, Purbasthali College on February 25, 2023 at Room No. N2 from 02.00 pm.

Objectives:

- Promotion of Academic Integrity: The primary objective of the special lecture was to raise awareness about the importance of academic integrity and ethical conduct in academic settings.
- Understanding Academic Misconduct: The lecture aimed to elucidate various forms of academic misconduct, such as plagiarism, cheating, and fabrication, and their consequences on academic credibility and integrity.
- Empowering Stakeholders: By providing insights and strategies for promoting academic integrity, the lecture sought to empower faculty members, students, and academic administrators to uphold ethical standards and foster a culture of integrity within the institution.

Description:

- The lecture commenced with an exploration of the fundamental principles of academic integrity, including honesty, trust, and responsibility. The speaker then delved into various aspects of academic misconduct, such as plagiarism, collusion, and contract cheating, illustrating real-life examples and case studies to highlight the seriousness of these offenses.
- Through interactive discussions and engaging presentations, the lecture provided participants with practical tips and strategies for promoting academic integrity in their respective roles as educators, learners, and academic leaders. Topics covered included the importance of proper citation practices, techniques for promoting originality in academic work, and the role of education in fostering ethical behavior.

Description:

The one-day state-level seminar on "Education in Post-Covid-19 World: Challenges and Opportunities" brought together educators, researchers, and stakeholders from different institutes. The seminar commenced with an inaugural session featuring keynote addresses from experts in education policy, public health, and technology. Subsequent sessions covered various themes related to education in the post-pandemic era, including:

- Remote Learning and Digital Divide: Discussions focused on the challenges and disparities in access to remote learning technologies and strategies for bridging the digital divide.
- Mental Health and Well-being: Experts shared insights on the mental health challenges faced by students and educators during the pandemic and explored strategies for promoting well-being in educational settings.
- Hybrid Learning Models: Presentations and case studies highlighted innovative approaches to hybrid learning, blending online and offline instruction to enhance learning outcomes and engagement.

Outcome:

- Informed Discourse: Participants gained a deeper understanding of the multifaceted challenges and opportunities facing education in the post-Covid-19 world through informed discourse and exchange of ideas.
- Networking and Collaboration: The seminar provided valuable networking opportunities for educators, policymakers, and stakeholders to collaborate on addressing common challenges and exploring collaborative solutions.
- Actionable Insights: Attendees left the seminar with actionable insights and strategies for navigating the complexities of education in the post-pandemic landscape, empowering them to drive positive change within their respective institutions and communities.

Conclusion:

In conclusion, the one-day state-level seminar on "Education in Post-Covid-19 World: Challenges and Opportunities" served as a platform for reflection, dialogue, and action within the education community. By bringing together stakeholders from diverse backgrounds, the seminar facilitated a comprehensive exploration of the challenges and opportunities facing education in the wake of the pandemic. Moving forward, it is imperative for educators, policymakers, and stakeholders to continue collaborating and innovating to build a more resilient, inclusive, and adaptive education system that meets the needs of learners in the post-Covid-19 world.

INTRODUCTION – The first half of the 20 th century was an important period in Bengali literature. At this time Bengali society and culture was going through a great upheaval. Independence, partition, unemployment, refugee problems pushed the Bengali life into a terrible crisis at that time. This picture of the society was captured by the writers of that time. The aim of the seminar was to elaborate on the literature of that period.

INTRODUCTION:

The trajectory of Indian politics post-independence has been marked by significant shifts and complexities. Despite lacking the conventional prerequisites of democracy, India has remarkably sustained its democratic system amidst challenges. Initially, a single party dominated the political scene, but subsequent decades saw the rise of diverse social forces such as caste, religion, class, linguistic groups, and minority interests, altering the political landscape. Institutional behaviors, including parliament, the presidency, judiciary, and bureaucracy, have evolved over time. Federal relations have also shaped political dynamics. The transition from one-party dominance to a multi-party system, notably with the emergence of regional parties, transformed governance at both national and state levels. Constitutional amendments empowering local governments exemplify this shift. A pivotal event was the introduction of neoliberal economic policies in the early 1990s, fundamentally altering India's political economy. Despite challenges and transformations, India's democracy endures, challenging pessimistic forecasts and demonstrating resilience amid change. In this regard, Purbasthali College and Kalna College, in collaboration with IQAC, organized a seminar on 27th September 2022 aimed at addressing issues in contemporary Indian politics.

INAUGURATION:

The seminar commenced promptly at 11:00 AM with an inauguration ceremony. The Principal of Purbasthali College warmly extended a welcome address to all attendees, setting a congenial tone for the event. Following this, the Principal of Kalna College delivered an insightful discourse, articulating his views on the prevailing trends and challenges within contemporary Indian Politics.

SESSION:

In the first session, Dr. Arindam Roy addresses the complexities of the post-colonial era, exploring India's challenges and opportunities in the wake of independence. Dr. Subhas singha Roy focuses on the task of reconstructing India following independence, examining the efforts and strategies involved in nation-building. Dr. Molly Ghosh delves into the intersection of secularism and gender perspectives, analyzing the dilemmas and dynamics within India's secular framework from a gender lens. Following the presentation, a lively interactive session took place. Students enthusiastically asked questions and shared their experiences related to the contemporary Indian Politics.

The second session commenced post-lunch, transitioning into a technical segment where a total of ten presenters, comprising scholars, teachers, and students, showcased their research papers on designated topics. Each presenter offered unique insights and perspectives, contributing to a vibrant exchange of ideas within the seminar setting.

CONCLUSION:

In conclusion, the seminar provided a comprehensive exploration of various facets of contemporary Indian politics and society. The first session featured thought-provoking presentations by Dr. Arindam Roy, Dr. Subhas Singha Roy, and Dr. Molly Ghosh, who delved into critical topics such as post-colonial challenges, nation-building efforts, and the intersection of secularism and gender perspectives. The ensuing interactive session fostered dynamic engagement among attendees, with students actively participating by posing questions and sharing their experiences.

The subsequent technical session showcased the diverse research endeavors of scholars, teachers, and students, further enriching the discourse with their unique insights and perspectives. Collectively, these sessions underscored the seminar's significance as a platform for intellectual exchange and scholarly dialogue.

Overall, the seminar served as a valuable forum for enhancing understanding and awareness of the multifaceted issues shaping contemporary Indian politics and society. It not only facilitated knowledge dissemination but also inspired critical thinking and reflection among participants, thereby contributing to the advancement of academic discourse in this field.

INTRODUCTION:

Human rights play a significant role in India due to its diverse population and complex social fabric. While progress has been made in certain areas, there are ongoing concerns. India has a vibrant democracy with civil and political rights protected by the Constitution, but restrictions on these rights have been observed. Gender equality remains a challenge, with issues such as violence and discrimination against women. Caste-based discrimination persists despite legal prohibitions, affecting marginalized communities. Religious freedom faces challenges, although secularism and pluralism are valued. LGBTQ+ rights have seen positive legal developments, but social acceptance and equality are ongoing issues. The right to education is recognized, but challenges like high dropout rates and disparities remain. Concerns about press freedom exist, including censorship and harassment of journalists. However, individuals and organizations work to address human rights issues and bring about positive change. In this regard, Purbasthali College and Bolpur College, in collaboration with IQAC, organized a seminar on 30th June 2023 aimed at addressing issues in human rights and Indian scenario.

INAUGURATION:

The seminar commenced around 11 am. The seminar commenced with an inaugural ceremony, graced by the presence of faculty members, students, and esteemed guests. The Principal of Purbasthali College, Dr. Bibhas Chandra Saha, delivered a warm welcome address, setting the tone for an enlightening session ahead.

SESSION:

In the first session, Dr. Debnarayan Modak, in his comprehensive seminar, shed light on various facets of human rights in the Indian context. He delved into historical perspectives, legal frameworks, contemporary challenges, and future prospects concerning human rights in India. Prof. Gargi Sengupta focused on the critical examination of human rights through the lens of women's perspectives, exploring the challenges, progress, and future directions in ensuring gender equality and women's rights.

INTERACTIVE SESSION:

Following the seminar, an interactive session was held where participants had the opportunity to engage with Dr. Debnarayan Modak through questions, discussions, and sharing of perspectives. The exchange of ideas enriched the learning experience and encouraged critical reflection on the subject matter.

SECOND SESSION :

During the technical session post-lunch, scholars, teachers, and students presented their papers on various topics. Five presenters covered subjects ranging from human rights, offering diverse perspectives and insights. The session facilitated an exchange of ideas and stimulated discussions among attendees, fostering a collaborative atmosphere for academic exploration.

1. Name of the programme: One-day National Seminar
2. Topic: “Literary Theory and the Linguistic Turn”
3. Organizer: Department of English, in collaboration with IQAC, Purbasthali College, and Katwa College
4. Duration: 1 day
5. Date: September 15, 2022
6. Number of participants: 58
7. Venue: Seminar Hall, Purbasthali College
8. Name of resource person: Mr. Atanu Kumar Paul, Assistant Professor, Department of English, JMS College Munger, and Mrs. Abhinanda Chakraborty, Assistant Professor, Department of English, Chandidas Mahavidyalaya

Introduction:

A One-day National Seminar on “Literary Theory and the Linguistic Turn” was organized by the Department of English, in collaboration with IQAC, Purbasthali College, and Katwa College (under MoU) on September 15, 2022 at Seminar Hall from 11.00 am. The aimed to explore the profound impact of the linguistic turn on literary theory, elucidating its theoretical underpinnings and its implications for literary analysis and interpretation.

Objectives:

- Understanding Literary Theory: The primary objective of the seminar was to provide participants with a comprehensive understanding of literary theory, particularly focusing on the concept of the linguistic turn.
- Exploring Linguistic Perspectives: The seminar aimed to explore the influence of linguistic theories and methodologies on literary criticism, highlighting the shift towards language-centered approaches in the analysis of literary texts.

- Critical Engagement: Through discussions, presentations, and analysis of seminal texts, the seminar sought to encourage critical engagement with key theoretical concepts and their application to literary analysis.
- Fostering Dialogue: The seminar aimed to foster dialogue and exchange of ideas among participants, facilitating a deeper understanding of the relationship between language, literature, and culture.
- Enhancing Analytical Skills: By engaging with various literary theories and linguistic approaches, the seminar aimed to enhance participants' analytical skills and critical thinking abilities in the interpretation and evaluation of literary texts.

Key Discussions:

The seminar commenced with an overview provided by the Convener, Dr. Soumya Mohan Ghosh on the linguistic turn, tracing its origins in 20th-century philosophy, particularly the works of Ludwig Wittgenstein, Ferdinand de Saussure, and J.L. Austin. The Keynote speaker, Mr. Atanu Kumar Paul, Assistant Professor, Department of English, JMS College Munger delved into how this philosophical shift revolutionized literary studies by emphasizing language as a primary site of meaning-making and textual interpretation. Plenary speaker, Mrs. Abhinanda Chakraborty, Assistant Professor, Department of English, Chandidas Mahavidyalaya, embarked on an insightful exploration into the intricate relationship between language and literature, elucidating the transformative impact of the linguistic turn on literary theory and criticism. In the Technical Sessions, paper presenters explored various aspects of the linguistic turn's influence on literary theory, including structuralism, post-structuralism, deconstruction, and reader-response theory. Discussions delved into how concepts such as signifier and signified, language as a system of differences, and the indeterminacy of meaning have reshaped our understanding of literature and literary interpretation.

Outcome:

- Enhanced Understanding: Participants gained a deeper understanding of the influence of linguistic theories on literary criticism, recognizing the significance of the linguistic turn in reshaping scholarly approaches to literature.

- Critical Engagement: The seminar fostered critical engagement with key theoretical concepts and methodologies, empowering participants to apply linguistic perspectives to their analysis of literary texts.
- Interdisciplinary Insights: Participants gained interdisciplinary insights into the intersections between language, literature, and culture, recognizing the relevance of diverse theoretical frameworks in enriching their understanding of literary phenomena.
- Methodological Versatility: The seminar equipped participants with a repertoire of methodological tools and analytical approaches, enabling them to navigate the complexities of literary analysis with greater precision and nuance.
- Stimulated Inquiry: The seminar stimulated further inquiry and exploration into the dynamic relationship between language and literature, inspiring participants to pursue independent research and scholarship in the field of literary theory.

Conclusion:

In conclusion, the seminar on "Literary Theory and the Linguistic Turn" provided a comprehensive exploration of the profound impact of linguistic theory on literary studies. By delving into the theoretical foundations and practical applications of the linguistic turn, participants gained valuable insights into contemporary approaches to literary analysis and interpretation.

- Self-Study Report (SSR) Preparation: Practical sessions guided participants in crafting the Self-Study Report (SSR), a pivotal element of the accreditation process, underscoring the significance of data compilation, documentation, and evidence-based evaluation.
- Quality Enhancement Initiatives: The workshop underscored the role of quality enhancement initiatives in the accreditation process, stressing the importance of institutional planning, stakeholder involvement, and continual enhancement in augmenting educational quality and eminence.

Outcome:

- Augmented Understanding: Participants deepened their comprehension of the NAAC accreditation process, criteria, and standards, empowering them to prepare effectively for accreditation and align institutional practices with quality assurance requisites.
- Empowered Participants: The workshop equipped participants with the knowledge, skills, and resources requisite to initiate and sustain quality enhancement initiatives within their institutions, fostering a culture of distinction and answerability.

Conclusion:

In conclusion, the lecture on NAAC Evaluation Process served as a valuable platform for capacity building, knowledge dissemination, and collaborative efforts among higher education stakeholders. By enriching participants' comprehension of the accreditation process and promoting quality enhancement initiatives, the workshop contributed to the advancement of educational quality and distinction in participating institutions.

Report of the Special Lecture

1. Name of the Program: Special Lecture
2. Topic: "Beyond Boundaries: Empowering Women in Today's World"
3. Organizer: Women's Cell, Purbasthali College
4. Duration: 1 day
5. Date: 14.10.2022
6. Number of participants: 57
7. Venue: Room No. 9
8. Name of resource person: Dr. Soumya Mohan Ghosh, Assistant Professor, Purbasthali College
9. Summary of the Event:

The lecture began by examining the evolving discourse around women's empowerment, emphasizing the need to move beyond traditional notions of gender roles and societal expectations. Speakers highlighted the importance of challenging stereotypes and reimagining possibilities for women in all spheres of life. A central theme of the lecture was the recognition of intersectionality – the interconnectedness of gender with other factors such as race, ethnicity, class, sexuality, and disability. The speaker underscored the importance of adopting inclusive approaches that address the diverse experiences and needs of women from different backgrounds. Presentations and case studies showcased the transformative power of education and economic empowerment in enhancing the status and agency of women. Participants discussed strategies for expanding access to quality education, vocational training, and entrepreneurial opportunities for women and girls. The lecture also emphasized the importance of amplifying women's voices and leadership in decision-making processes across various sectors, including politics, business, academia, and civil society.

Brief Discussion:

The Workshop was primarily organised for the teaching and Non-Teaching Staff members of the Purbasthali College and it was greatly appreciated by most. The first half of the workshop focused on the presentations by the Resource person while the second half was reserved for interactions. The interactions among the resource person and participants were exemplary with engaging questions and conversations throughout the duration of the Workshop. Overall, the endeavour was remarkably successful and concluded with appreciatory remarks and observations by all concerned.

Key Outcomes:

- The resource person, presented the subject of discussion in a very lucid and easy to understand way, so that any layman can comprehend.
- By attending this Workshop on IPR, participants gathered and/or brushed up their basic understandings about the topic, and cleared their major
